Reflect…make time to pause…be still…alone…allow the many relationships in your life to take a slower pace in your thoughts…contemplate current and past events. Reflection prepares the way for change.*

Change…the ever present constant. The God of the universe speaks to us through change. Yet, the most important change is that of our perspective.*

Perspective…keeps changing during our lifetime…like a kaleidoscope. Whether a new understanding of inspired writings or a more profound interpretation of the meaning of life.*

Welcome to my understanding of the world. Welcome to Perspectives…by Matthew

• • • • • • •

The Concept…came from the insight that most of us rarely take time to simply stop and reflect on the things which are important to us…to center ourselves. Each of us will reflect on different things…depending on our current needs, desires and perspectives. While my religious heritage stressed a daily devotional time, this personal practice may be applied to any life seeking renewal, encouragement, strength and even wisdom.*

The idea of finding fifteen minutes within our already busy lives may seem daunting…unless we were to use existing blocks of time already in our schedule. The time we spend commuting to work may be the most viable option for some…or curling up with an MP3 player for an intimate listening experience. Indeed, rare is the individual able to begin their day with a quiet time for personal reflection…but their reward is immeasurable.

The Creation…is only a captured 'moment in time.' With a pre-selected text, I sat at my piano and played…allowing the creative juices to flow…accepting whatever came out as meant to be…while interweaving the words.*

The World English Bible translation of the Proverbs was used for this project: www.worldenglishbible.org

www.MattJohnsonMusic.com

